Monday, August 4. 1707.

From the Paris Gazette, dated Aug. 6.

Basil, July 24.

LETTERS from Milan of the 19th of last Month import, that they had receiv'd the following News from Naples. The 30th of June the Imperial Army arriv'd at San-Germano, whence 300 Horse and all the Hussars were detach'd to make themselves Masters of Capua; but they return'd that Night to Mignano, where the Army was arriv'd, having not been able to execute their Design, because 4 Regiments of Horse were in the Neighbourhood. The 2d those Regiments having Order to retire, the Imperialists entered the City. The 5th the Garrison of the Castle having stood some Discharges of Cannon, march'd out by Capitulation. In the mean Time the Duke d'Elcalona Viceroy not having Troops enough to keep the Field, after having provided with good Garrisons all the Places of Strength, and being unwilling to expose Naples which is defenceless to be plunder'd, declar'd to the Nobility that he judg'd it proper to leave it for some Time, which was approv'd. He retir'd to Gaeta, which is the Key of the Kingdom, and which he had garrison'd with 3000 Men. The Marquis de Villena his Son, provided abundantly the 3 Castles of Naples, with Ammunition, and Provisions, without any Tumult; and then went to the Viceroy at Gaeta. The 6th some Deputies went to Aversa, to offer the Imperialists Entrance into the City, on Condition they should commit no Disorder there. The 7th the Foot entered it, and the Horse encamp'd in the Neighbourhood of the Place. The Nobility shew'd great Fidelity for the King of Spain. Part of them had follow'd the Viceroy, and the Marquis de Villena, with the Regents, the Councils, and the military Officers. The greatest Part of the rest of the Nobility retir'd into the Provinces with the Troops, to keep them firm in their Duty; among the rest the Prince of Castiglione, who went into the Abruzzo with a Body of Horse to preserve that Entrance of the Kingdom.

Toulon, July 25. The 23d of this Month 7 Battallions arriv'd in this City; the 24th 13 others arriv'd, and the rest that were expected arriv'd to Day. 34 Battallions are posted in an entrench'd Camp, which is planted with a great Number of Cannon, between the City and the Mountain of St. Anne, which is a great steep and inaccessible Rock. By this Means we have cover'd the Royal Gate, or Gate of Marseilles, by which we can always have Succours. 6 Battallions are put into the Town, in which are besides 4 Battallions of Marines, a great many Officers, Guards Marine, and Gunners. The new Works are intirely finish'd, and the Place is furnish'd with an extraordinary Number of Cannon and Mortars, with which a great Number of Batteries are made. The Marshal de Tesse arriv'd here yesterday, and to Day he took a View of the Camp, and of the City both within and without. He is to set out to Morrow to return to Aix, in Order to draw together the Horse, and 30 or 35 Battallions that are on the March; with which he will observe the Enemy narrowly, if they persist in their Design to besiege this City. One of their Parties of Hussars has been surpriz'd and taken in a Village, with their commanding Officer. By them, and by above 300 Deserters that are come over we are inform'd that their Army is extremely fatigued, that there are many Sick in it, and that the Duke of Savoy having oblig'd his Troops to march hard through a Country without Water, many Soldiers died of Thirst and Heat; which oblig'd him to halt a while and to march more slowly. We are assur'd likewise, that since he pass'd the Var his Army is lessen'd 2000 Men. He has likewise been retarded by the Winds, which for 3 or 4 Days have been contrary to the Enemy's Fleet, in which are a great Number of Sick. They anchor'd Yesterday along our Coast, between the Salt-Pits of Hieres and the Mouth of the Gapeau, 4 or 5 Leagues from hence, where 'tis probable they will land their Artillery and other things necessary for a Siege. We have an Account, that the Dutch Vice-Admiral Vander Goetz, died at Nice. The Marquis de Seville, Commander of a Squadron, is dead by a Fall from a Rock, where he was giving Direction for making a Battery: He is very much lamented. The Van of the Enemy's Army came 2 Days ago to Cuers, within 3 Leagues of this Place; but we have no Account yet where the rest of their Troops are.

From the Antwerp Courant, dated Aug. 9.

Aix in Provence, July 28. The Marshal de Tesse, who is now in this Town, has order'd a very strong Line to be made from hence to the Durance; upon which all our Inhabitants, as well Churchmen as Laymen, are set to Work. By his Order the Fortifications of the Castle of Tretz are demolish'd. The Enemy's Army is at present encamp'd 3 Leagues from Toulon, and their Fleet is at the Islands Hieres. In the Camp which the Marshal de Tesse has form'd before this Town Troops arrive daily, which with the Succours that are coming from Germany will amount to 35 Battallions and 48 Squadrons. To Morrow we expect the Count de Medavi with 2000 Men. Our Hospital is full of sick Men. This Morning 1500 Men were sent in all haste from hence to Marseilles. 'Tis advis'd from Montpellier and other Places in Languedoc, that notwithstanding all the Vigilance of our Generals the Malecontents in the Sevennes and Vivarez having Information of the Approach of the Enemy's Army, have begun to draw together in Arms; so that the Marshal de Montrevel has been oblig'd to send 400 Dragoons towards Alais and Anduze, to fall upon a Body of those those Malecontents; and at Nismes he has caus'd M. Brissot to be broken alive on the Wheel.

Paris, Aug. 5. 'The Lieutenants General Gobriant and Dillon have thrown themselves into Toulon. 'Tis reported the Garrison is 38 Battallions strong, making together about 11000 Men: Notwithstanding which the Court's Uneasiness for that Place increases rather than diminishes. The Women and Children are turn'd out of the Town; great Part of the Cannon are carried to Marteaux, thence to be remov'd elsewhere; and they have begun to sink the first Rate Men of War. In short all that can be is done for saving that Place, which is newly encompass'd with an Intrenchment. The Marshal de Tessé having given all necessary Orders is retir'd to Aix, to go to Sisteron where is the Rendezvous for the other Troops, which are to make up a Body of about 50 Battallions and 42 Squadrons: M. de Medavi is already arriv'd there with 2000 Men of regular Troops; and 'tis propos'd with this Body to incommode the Army of the Duke of Savoy. That Prince notwithstanding these Obstacles, is wholly bent on the Siege of Toulon: The Enemy's Fleet have appear'd before the Harbour, and we every Moment expect Couriers with Accounts of the Enterprizes of the Enemy, whose Army is reckon'd to be 38000 Men at most. The Duke of Savoy has publish'd a Declaration, importing, that he is come only to deliver the People of Provence from the Slavery of France, and to recover the Sovereignty of that Province, by Virtue of a very ancient Title; promising Protection to the Inhabitants; who out of an Inclination to Novelty or Rebellion are well affected to him: Of this the Town of Grasse especially have given an illustrious Example, having of their own Accord presented to the Duke of Savoy a great Sum of Money, after having refus'd a very small Sum to a French General who retir'd through their Town with his Regiment. There is no News from Spain, the Armies on both sides being in Summer Quarters: 'Tis only said that the Army which is to act against Portugal in Autumn, is already form'd in Andalusia, and that the King will put himself at the Head of that Army. Just now a Report is spread, on the Arrival of a Courier at Court, that the Enemy have taken Post on the Mountain of St. Catherine.

Never Acted there but once.
